Some People Never Learn

On March 20th, Beverly Hills police officers arrested a 78 year old woman from West Hollywood for suspicion of burglary. The senior citizen was seen going into offices in the 400 block of North Bedford Drive. The police had been alerted to the suspect after receiving a number of “suspicious person” calls regarding her activities. Alert police officers were able to locate and detain the suspect a short distance away on Camden Drive. The officers were able to determine that the suspect had been going into multiple offices and stealing purses and other property from unsuspecting office workers. What makes this story so remarkable is not the suspect’s age, nor the fact that she has a very thick arrest record that spans 41 years. What makes this story so interesting is that her first arrest occurred in 1967 when she was arrested by the Beverly Hills Police Department for burglary.....Some people never learn.
